MARGINAL COLUMN

By BRAYA SHAPIRO

A BRITISH intellectual would tell you he was not concerned with politics. He was much above it. Politicians were often dishonest. They would support the ruling Archbishops, Makarios from Cyprus, but would deny as non-democratic a similar decision of the Government of Ghana. Honesty is more than a quality of character to a British thinker: it is the essence of his life.

THE three British plays which I happened to see in England all dealt with the conflict between strict honesty and human frailty. In "The Chalk Garden," the longest runs in London, the protagonist is a woman who had been sentenced to death but reprieved by a mere Crown. She meets the judge who sent her to her death. The judge genuinely regretted she was not hanged; the evidence was against her. But was she a murderer, in spite of the evidence? The Law, the judge argued, could not go into it. Perhaps the evidence did lie; but an honest judge, for the peace of his mind, had to rely on whatever evidence he heard in court.

IN "The Telescope" by R.C. Sherriff, performed by the Wolverhampton repertory theatre, the issue is put in greater sharpness. A young priest in a London suburb succeeds in transforming an adolescent thief into an honest youth aspiring to a military career. On the eve of the boy's departure to the cadet school, a telescope is stolen from a shop. If it were true, as the boy claimed, that he spent that evening with his benefactor, the police would let him go and Joe Palmer would grow up an honest man. If the boy lied, Joe would be sent to a reformatory school, which was little better than a prison for young men and virtually a school for thieves. But the priest cannot lie. The law runs its course, a human life is wasted.

EVEN more tragic is "The Iron Harp," by the Irish actor Joseph O'Connor, which was performed by the famous Birmingham Repertory Theatre. A British officer is held prisoner by the Irish rebels. The blind captor likes him, and so does an Irish girl. He and she are married. The blind captor, who is a man of war, three names have been drawn by lot from among the British prisoners to die in reprisal. The captain, John Freganthen is one of them.

THE blind harpist, Irish as he is, would like to save the man he has come to like. Everything is set for the evasion, but by inescapable Fate intervenes with the premature appearance of the firing squad. "Just by looking away for ten minutes you will save four human lives," the blind young man implores the rebel captain. But how could an Irish officer, who, after all, is bred in English culture, pretend not to see the truth? He is a man of war, the inhumanity, the inhumanity, of the execution. But the law of the rebel is as strict as the law of the British. The blind harpist, the figure of the weeping blind man (played superbly by the young actor Albert Finney), while backstage are heard the burst of machinegun fire and the whistle of the train which would have taken the British officer and his fiancée to freedom.

PROUD as he may be of his inflexible honesty, a British intellectual seems uneasy about it and endeavours to escape from it by the aid of French logical acrobatics. Anouilh and Sartre are popular with the intellectual who delights in being unpredictable. He is fond of irregularity as a child is fond of his toy. Nothing amuses him more than the fact that his house is built askew and the windows do not meet. He indulges in the philosophy of the Yogi, or maybe in the Mystery of the Desert. In the late twenties he probably brandished the Labour pennant with a strong leftist flavour. Today he is disappointed by politics and prefers to take a seat in a box and watch the world go by with a bemused smile.

ONE day he may be thrown out of his self-confined intellectual freedom and be given practical responsibility, as was the case of the Labour Party in the late forties. Then the smile will vanish, and the sterling qualities of honesty and belief in law may claim their due. What a British intellectual would dread even more than the pangs of channelled respectability is being considered "an Englishman." Disarmament Commission and its five-nation Subcommittee.

MADRID, Monday (Reuter). — An 22 persons on board a Spanish airliner were killed today when the plane crashed eight kilometres from Madrid.

Turk Democrats Win With Slashed Margin

ISTANBUL, Monday (Reuter). — Mr. Adnan Menderes, Turkish Prime Minister for the past seven years, was today officially declared election victor and returned to power for another four years — but with much stiffer opposition in Parliament than before.

His ruling Democrat Party is expected to control 454 seats and its Republican opponents 178 in the 610-member Assembly when the final result of yesterday's poll is known. The Freedom and National parties have four seats each, and 10 returns have still to come in. The Chalk Garden, the longest runs in London, the protagonist is a woman who had been sentenced to death but reprieved by a mere Crown. She meets the judge who sent her to her death. The judge genuinely regretted she was not hanged; the evidence was against her. But was she a murderer, in spite of the evidence? The Law, the judge argued, could not go into it. Perhaps the evidence did lie; but an honest judge, for the peace of his mind, had to rely on whatever evidence he heard in court.

Zhukov Now Seen On Way Down

LONDON, Monday (Reuter). — Marshal Zhukov remained the Kremlin's No. 1 mystery man today as Moscow kept up the speculation that he had been removed from the key post of Defence Minister on Saturday.

The weight of Western press and diplomatic comment now chiefly supports the view that the Marshal has fallen from grace, and is not destined for another top post. Some Communist newspapers in the West which yesterday acclaimed the move as a prelude to a bigger official demotion, today switched to the line that he is on the way out. Official diplomatic reports today revealed strong indications that the influence in politics of the Soviet Army is being reduced by the Communist Party as part of a determined struggle for supremacy. The reports said the strongest hint of this move came in a sentence published in "Pravda" no Saturday a few hours before it was announced that Zhukov had been "relieved" of his post. The sentence, which apparently referred to the "subordination of the armed forces to the Central Committee of the Party."

Demonstrations In Cyprus; 23 Hurt

NICOSIA, Monday. — (Reuter). — Swift intervention by police and troops prevented demonstrations throughout Cyprus from snow-balling to dangerous proportions today, as Greek Cypriots celebrated the anniversary of the Greek rejection of the German-Italian surrender ultimatum in 1940. Security forces with batons and tear gas broke up crowds in the city and in major towns throughout Cyprus. Order was restored by noon. About 20 civilians and three British soldiers were slightly injured. In Nicosia harbour, most of the ships were idle in answer to a call by EOKA and the Communist organization AKEL. Most workers there stayed away from work.

USSR Urges New Arms Group Including All 82 U.N. Members

UNITED NATIONS, Monday (UP). — Russia proposed today the establishment of a disarmament commission composed of all 82 U.N. member states. The Soviet delegation submitted a draft resolution to the General Assembly calling for abolition of the present 12-member Disarmament Commission and its five-nation Subcommittee. No provision was made for a small body to take the place of the subcommittee. The committee would be composed of Britain, France, Canada, Russia and the U.S., which has carried the major burden of disarmament negotiations in recent years. The Soviet proposal would have an 82-member Disarmament Commission in permanent session. Its meetings would be public. The Subcommittee's meetings would be secret. The Disarmament Commission at present is composed of the 11 members of the Security Council plus Canada. British observers in London considered the Soviet proposal a serious blow to prospects of resumed negotiations on disarmament. They did not believe that progress could be made in a forum as wide as the membership of the world organization. However, rejection of the Soviet plan by the Assembly could not, they pointed out, ensure serious work in the existing Disarmament Commission and Subcommittee. (UP, Reuter)

World Sympathy Not Enough, Meir Warns

RUSSIA, SYRIA SIGN $51m. Spent by U.S. Under Ike's 'Doctrine'

WASHINGTON, Monday (INA). — President Eisenhower has transmitted to Congress a semi-annual report on security operations, including the $51m. in military assistance arranged by Ambassador James Richards under the Eisenhower Doctrine.

Relations with USSR

He went on to note that proposals were made from time to time for a complete change of values in our foreign policy "in order to gain the sympathies of the Soviet Union." But it was not Israel's fault that certain states, as the result of political calculations, have not been friendly to us. Such friendship could not, however, be bought "at the price of giving up measures that assure our security and the maintenance of our independence and territorial integrity." Excerpts from Mrs. Meir's speech follow:

Value of U.N.

"With all its shortcomings, the value of this institution (U.N.) should on no account be underestimated. There is no other world organization which has done so much for the peace of the world, even in times of strained relations. Israel must surely hold this institution in highest esteem, for it is the only one which has been able to bring about a settlement of our problems to those in a position to exercise great influence on the foreign policy of their governments and to instruct their delegates at the Assembly. Our activities in this direction encountered no special difficulties this year. There was no delegation, nor delegate, whom we sought to meet without avail. "With the exception of one delegate, there was not a single state which was not convinced of the sincerity of Israel's quest for peace."

Arab Belligerency

"It is the stubborn stand of the Arab states — the refusal to desist from their attitude of belligerency towards the State of Israel, and this despite the obligation that the U.N. Charter imposes upon them to do so — has permitted the Cold War to penetrate deeply into our region. It is not we who are the roots of the tension but the attitude of the Arab states towards our state, the persistence of their aggression and their threats against Israel."

Wolfson Denies Coming For Talks on Shell

LYDDA AIRPORT, Monday. — The Shell Company has made known a list of names of persons with whom it is prepared to negotiate for the sale of its installations in Israel, and his name is on the list, Mr. Isaac Wolfson, the British-chain store owner, declared on his arrival by KLM tonight.

There is no truth in the rumour that he has come to bargain with Shell. Mr. Wolfson said. His principal reason for coming to Israel at this time is to take part in the planning of the interior of the Supreme Religious Centre in Jerusalem. The building, a new nearing completion, should be ready in May, he added. (Hina)

Eban Appeals to Big Powers To End Mid-East Arms Race

UNITED NATIONS, Monday (UP). — Israel appealed to the big powers today to end the "deadly spiral of competitive rearmament" in the Middle East.

Nuclear "intimidation" has entered diplomatic relations between small and great powers, he said. "Nothing would be lost by any state if the habit of rocket-rattling were ended and if the ethics of the (U.N.) Charter were restored in the diplomacy — and even the propaganda — of all nations, great and small," he told the General Assembly's main Political Committee. Mr. Eban gave his support to the 24-power Western disarmament proposal, but said the way should be closed to alternate approaches. He added that it should not be so worded as to dictate an agreement. He supported the Western position that disarmament must be accompanied by adequate controls.

Nasser: U.S. Seeking to Oust Egyptian and Syrian Regimes

CAIRO, Monday (UP). — President Abdul Nasser today charged that the U.S. was seeking to "get rid" of the present governments of Egypt and Syria and that this is the main obstacle to better Egyptian-American relations. In an exclusive interview granted to Dr. O. Preston Robinson, general manager of the Salt Lake City "Deseret News," Nasser said he sent troops to Syria during the present crisis with Turkey in fulfillment of an alliance between Egypt and Syria. He said neither his regime nor the present regime in Syria would lead countries into the "Communist" camp. People in the Middle East are grateful to Russia for her help, he said, but Communism itself is not spreading. Nasser declared that Egyptian diplomatic recognition of East Germany "definitely is not on the agenda — at this time."

Eliah: Shell Action May Be Precedent

Jerusalem Post reporter

TEL AVIV, Monday. — The decision by the British and American governments to withdraw from operations in Israel might be the first sign of a new era in the relations between Israel and the West. The British and American governments, the Ambassador to London, declared today at a luncheon given in his honor by the Anglo-Israel Chamber of Commerce at 23A House.

Mr. Eliah at the same time praised those British firms which had maintained their business relations in face of the threats leveled at them by the Arab boycott organization. The Ambassador went on to say that there was room for an expansion of our exports to the United Kingdom, provided quality was maintained. He added that Israel's products enjoyed wide popularity in Britain for their high quality, attractive packaging and prompt delivery.

Turning to Britain's attitude to this country, Mr. Eliah said: There are not many other countries where there is a comparable understanding of Israel among the public at large.

Ulanova Writes On Communism

MOSCOW, Monday (Reuter). — Galina Ulanova, the world famous Russian ballerina, has written in "Pravda" that Communism is the greatest, most and holiest of man's aims.

She said this in the course of a three-column article on Russian art, one of many which the Communist Party newspaper carries yesterday in connection with the 40th anniversary of the Revolution.

Ulanova said it was "particularly important for art to render and shape those thoughts and feelings which help people achieve Communism." Only the "short-lived" do not see that art in Russia has become an inseparable part of the spiritual life of the masses.

LAW REPORT

In the Supreme Court Sitting as Court of Criminal Appeal

Before the Deputy President (Justice Cheshin), Justices Gotten and Landau.

The Attorney-General v. Abner Ben Shimon Moris and Abner Ben Shimon Moris (C.A. 45/57).

Municipality Not Empowered to Prohibit the Distribution of Political Leaflets From Hand to Hand

The Supreme Court dismissed an appeal by the Attorney-General against a judgment of the Tel Aviv District Court sitting as Court of Appeal delivered on February 27, 1957 (C.A. 45/57).

The respondents were charged in the Tel Aviv Municipal Court with distributing political leaflets from hand to hand in contravention of Section 9(b) of the Tel Aviv Laws (Advertisements) 1952 which provides:

"No person shall distribute an advertisement from hand to hand."

The evidence established that the respondents had distributed leaflets from hand to hand in a Tel Aviv street. These leaflets described the nationalization of the West Bank and the "New to Jerusalem" as an "encouragement of independence and peace in the Middle East."

Synthetic Blood Being Tested

PHILADELPHIA, Monday (Reuter). — The Director of the Hadasah Hospital, Dr. Kalman Mann, said yesterday that Israeli scientists had developed a new substance to replace blood fluid in human beings.

It was learned in Jerusalem that the experiments leading to the new development were conducted by a group of doctors headed by Dr. E. Hershman of the Department of Biochemistry of the Hadasah Hebrew University Medical School.

Dr. Mann, in the U.S. as a member of the Committee of the World Health Organization, was speaking at the National Convention of Hadasah.

The new substance had been used successfully on dogs and monkeys, and was being tested on human beings.

Dr. Mann said that the substance could be of "extreme importance in any condition where the circulating blood volume is diminished."

Army Prosecutor Insists All Kafr Kasim Accused Guilty

By MACABEE KASKIN, Jerusalem Post Reporter

Methodically covering all phases of the Kafr Kasim tragedy, Sgan-Aluf Colin Gillon yesterday began presenting the State's summing up in the trial of 11 Border Force policemen charged with killing 4 Kafr Kasim villagers on October 29, 1956.

Mr. Gillon opened without apology — in addition to the 5,000 pages of protocol already filed, he was submitting more than 300 pages of stenotyped extracts from various laws, mainly international as presented during the Nuremberg trials, governing the responsibility of officers and men who carried out illegal orders.

It is expected that Mr. Gillon will continue into next week, with the defence beginning its summing up at the beginning of the third week. Although the Court was open to the public, only two or three persons were present.

Mr. Gillon told the Court he was dropping the charges of killing of four of the 47 victims, since it had since been shown that these four had been killed by any of the 11 men on trial.

"In regard to all other charges (the death of 43 villagers) we believe we have brought sufficient evidence to convict the accused," he added.

Turning to the testimony given in court by villagers, he asked the court to accept it as "consistent and convincing," despite exaggerations and minor errors.

Embazzler with Clean Record Gets Off Light

A Jerusalem Bank Leumi clerk who forged payment orders totalling IL2,700 and had them cashed by the father of a friend, escaped a prison sentence today on the grounds of his youth, admission of guilt, remorse and previous clean record.

The Attorney General had also requested the court to treat the offenders leniently. Relieving President Judge Katzman said he was in accord with the names of the accused.

Both had shared the money between them but after they were found out admitted their guilt and returned the money. The clerk's father, a "sick man," had died after the incident and his mother fell ill.

The youth was fined IL1,000, his accomplice IL800 and both given a three years suspended sentence. (Him)

TEL AVIV, Monday. — The Manager of the Agricultural Bank, Rishon LeZion, Mr. Yehoshua Kattowitz, was formally charged at the Magistrate's Court here today with attempting to embezzle funds of the bank. He was released on IL2,000 bail with the consent of the police.

About three weeks ago discrepancies were found in the books of the bank by the Bank Examiner, and IL2,000 were unaccounted for. Kattowitz revealed the whereabouts of the missing sums.

He had allegedly failed to register the banks profits from 1955 onwards and placed them in fictional accounts, which police claim he intended to divert to his own use. (Him)

New Meccano-Like Construction Item

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV, Monday. — Stotted metal angles for building hangars, tanks, desks, conveyors, benches, trolleys, mobile ladders and for thousands of other construction jobs are now being produced by the Miron factory in Ashkelon.

The slotted angle pieces, which are made of cold rolled steel, could be used for practically any construction job, and no special skill was required in placing the parts together. Mr. Stinson went on to describe the slotted angle pieces produced by Miron under the trade mark of Supalot as simply "Meccano on a larger scale and made of heavier metal."

Used for Hangars

Mironit has sold 25,000 metres of slotted angles since its production began three months ago and was turning out 1,200 metres of the material daily. Mr. Stinson declared he said that IL250,000 had been invested in the new Miron factory, which was built on a plot of land in Ashkelon.

HAIFA, Monday. — The Israeli Kennel Club is holding a national dog show at the Haifa Municipal Stadium, next Sunday. Dr. R. Mead, chairman of the Club, told the press today.

The show will include the judging of pet dogs of the smaller varieties, but will concentrate on working dogs. These will be represented by Police dogs employed on tracking, identification, and search duties, as well as watch dogs from border settlements, Jerusalem, Natanya and Eilat.

The show, which will last all day, should demonstrate to the public that dogs can be useful in many ways, in particular in defeating thieves, including those from across the borders.

Dr. Mead said that, during the early days of kibbutz Yotvata, the settlers relied for their safety from marauders on a huge boxer watch dog. A name spread terror among the Arab bands and kept them away. His name lived on after him, to watch over the settlers for more than a year, until the news of his death reached the kibbutz.

Police Sergeant Y. Rosenbaum told the press that the Border Police intended to introduce watchdogs to all border settlements, because they had proved efficient in warding off marauders. Dogs had also been trained to discover mines. Unfortunately, he said, there were not enough breeders active in the country to supply all the dogs needed for security purposes.

The Kennel Club supervises about 2,800 dogs throughout the country. It gives advice to families who wish to acquire a dog as a pet.

IL150 Fine For Bribing Policeman

TEL AVIV, Monday. — A Tel Aviv taxi driver who bribed a policeman to get him out of a traffic jam, was today fined IL150 by Magistrate Y. Treibisch, and given a three-month suspended sentence for two years.

The taxi driver, Nissim Bracha, 24, of Jaffa, had drawn up at a crossing to pick up passengers. The traffic policeman, Yehoshua Zarbiv, ordered him to proceed to the Migdal cinema where he would write a report.

However, Bracha gathered speed and tried to elude the policeman. The latter gave chase in an army tender which he had commandeered.

When caught, Bracha produced a wad of bills and offered a five pound bribe, saying: "Take it and there's an end of the matter."

The driver maintained he had offered the money as payment of the fine and had not, in the first place, observed the policeman's signal.

The magistrate accepted the plea and fined the driver IL150, with a three-month suspended sentence for two years.
